with Sarah Beeny

This series presented by Sarah Beeny features inspiring people across the country designing their way out of debt by building incredible homes that allow them to live free from the burden of debt. Along with designer Max McMurdo and award winning architect Damion Burrows, Sarah meets ingenious people using clever and affordable ways to build their dream homes without owing a penny.

With the average deposit to buy a home increasing, getting on the housing ladder has never been harder. And those lucky enough to own their own home are saddled with a huge mortgage and pricey monthly repayments. What if you sold your house, paid off the mortgage and used the rest of the cash to design and build your own (mortgage free) dream home for a fraction of the price?

This series looks at people at both ends of the spectrum who are leaving conventional houses behind in search of a mortgage free life. Each programme doesn't just end with the reveal - we see what it's actually like living in the unique home that they've risked everything for in their pursuit of a debt free life. The experts are on hand to guide and inspire the builders and pass on their expertise as they take on their building challenges.
